Please Ignore Vera Dietz isn't an easy read. It contains the death of a best friend, a mother who abandons her daughter, alcoholic genes, bullies, etc. One of the several unique aspects of A.S. King's novel is the contrast of those dark topics with the lighthearted and witty voice of Vera, the protagonist.

~~Please Ignore Vera Dietz Quotes by A.S. King~~
Please Ignore Vera Dietz takes place in your typical American town, albeit one with a high poverty rate and a real divide between the rich and the poor. It's pretty rough: It's true. 47% of children in this town live below the poverty level. Many of then are hungry right now, while you're reading this.

~~Please Ignore Vera Dietz Analysis | Shmoop~~
Vera Dietz is a tough cookie. As the titular character of the book, she's dealing with quite a lot--her best friend in the whole wide world has just died, but instead of being straight-up sad, she doesn't know how to feel about it. Alone in the World Vera is kind of a loner, and before Charlie ditched her she mostly just hung out with him.

Please Ignore Vera Dietz Summary. Vera Dietz is a teenager with issues. As soon as the book opens up, we find out that her best friend (well, former-best-friend-turned-enemy) Charlie has died after allegedly setting the pet shop on fire. As time goes on, we get a sense of what's going on in Vera's life now, along with flashbacks that tell us more about her past with Charlie, as well as insights from her dad and from the dead kid (a.k.a. Charlie).

Please Ignore Vera Dietz Introduction. Reader beware: Please Ignore Vera Dietz isn't exactly a feel good story about best friends. In fact, author A.S. King writes about the gritty and dark side of adolescence with this tale of a best friendship gone very--and we do mean very --wrong. Our titular character Vera is dealing with lots of grief and anger when the book opens: Her former best friend/enemy Charlie is dead, and she doesn't know whether to mourn his death or curse his memory.

King is the award-winning author of eight acclaimed YA novels. Her novel Please Ignore Vera Dietz earned a 2011 Michael L. Printz Honor and Ask the Passengers won the 2013 Los Angeles Times Book Prize. King lives with her family in Pennsylvania, where she returned after a decade in Ireland living off the land and teaching adult literacy. 'A harrowing but ultimately redemptive tale of adolescent angst gone awry. The author depicts the journey to overcome a legacy of poverty, violence, addiction and ignorance as an arduous one, but Vera's path glimmers with grace and hope.' Kirkus Reviews 'Watching characters turn into the people they've long fought to avoid becoming is painful, but seeing them rise above it, reflect, and move on makes this title a worthy addition to any YA collection.' Booklist 'This is a strong and engaging book about growing up and coming-of-age..The ending is hopeful and uplifting but in no way unrealistic.' Reading Time

When her best friend, whom she secretly loves, betrays her and then dies under mysterious circumstances, high school senior Vera Dietz struggles with secrets that could help clear his name.

The first book from LA Times Book Prize and Printz Honor winner A.S. King--a witty, snarky tale of love and family, revenge and reincarnation, and pirates. In the late seventeenth century, famed teenage pirate Emer Morrisey was on the cusp of escaping the pirate life with her one true love and unfathomable riches when she was slain and cursed with "the dust of one hundred dogs," dooming her to one hundred lives as a dog before returning to a human body--with her memories intact. Now she's a contemporary American teenager and all she needs to escape her no-good family and establish a luxurious life of her own is a shovel and a ride to Jamaica...

The deeply affecting next book from acclaimed author Amy Sarig King.

Astrid Jones desperately wants to confide in someone, but her mother's pushiness and her father's lack of interest tell her they're the last people she can trust. Instead, Astrid spends hours lying on the backyard picnic table watching airplanes fly overhead. She doesn't know the passengers inside, but they're the only people who won't judge her when she asks them her most personal questions . . . like what it means that she's falling in love with a girl. As her secret relationship becomes more intense and her friends demand answers, Astrid has nowhere left to turn. She can't share the truth with anyone except the people at thirty thousand feet, and they don't even know she's there. But little does Astrid know just how much even the tiniest connection will affect these strangers' lives--and her own--for the better. In this truly original portrayal of a girl struggling to break free of society's definitions, Printz Honor author A.S. King asks readers to question everything--and offers hope to those who will never stop seeking real love.

In this fearless portrayal of a boy on the edge, highly acclaimed Printz Honor author A.S. King explores the desperate reality of a former child "star" struggling to break free of his anger. Gerald Faust started feeling angry even before his mother invited a reality TV crew into his five-year-old life. Twelve years later, he's still haunted by his rage-filled youth--which the entire world got to watch from every imaginable angle--and his anger issues have resulted in violent outbursts, zero friends, and clueless adults dumping him in the special education room at school. No one cares that Gerald has tried to learn to control himself; they're all just waiting for him to snap. And he's starting to feel dangerously close to doing just that...until he chooses to create possibilities for himself that he never knew he deserved.

Five white teenage cousins who are struggling with the failures and racial ignorance of their dysfunctional parents and their wealthy grandparents, reunite for Easter.

The first middle-grade novel from Printz Honor-winning author Amy Sarig (A. S.) King! Washington Post Best Book of the Year A New York Public Library Best Book for Kids A Texas Bluebonnet Master List selection Obe Devlin has problems. His family's farmland has been taken over by developers. His best friend Tommy has abandoned him. And he keeps getting nosebleeds, because of that thing he doesn't like to talk about. So Obe hangs out at the nearby creek, in the last wild patch left, picking up trash and looking for animal tracks. One day, he sees a creature that looks kind of like a large dog. And as he watches it, he realizes it eats plastic. Only plastic. Water bottles, shopping bags... No one has seen a creature like this before. The animal--Marvin Gardens--becomes Obe's best friend and biggest secret. But to keep him safe from the developers and Tommy and his friends, Obe must make a decision that might change everything.
